Why Baby Chicks Must Be Fed Carefully

Chicks have powerful digestive organs for quickly converting large quantities of food into body tissues, which results in amazing growth but these organs are peculiarly susceptible to the effects of improper feeding—the cause of great losses to poultrymen every year.

While opinions of authorities differ as to the ingredients for a good chick ration they agree very closely as to the chemical analysis required. You will find that Vitality Chick Mash and Vitality Chick Scratch contain the elements which most poultry authorities recommend, and we guarantee that only pure, wholesome ingredients are used.

Make sure of strong healthy chickens this year by feeding Vitality Poultry Feeds. Ask for "Chick Insurance".

PIRATES SCORE NOT, NEITHER DO THEY HIT

Scarcely a Normal .300 Hitter in Entire Array.

ONLY THREE MEN WHO ARE THERE WITH STICK

Pitching Staff is the Downright Goods and All Appear to Be in Good Condition.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 27—The Pittsburgh Pirates are the batting Levisky of major league baseball. Glance down their probable batting order for the opening game and you will note a list of estimable young men who score not, neither do they hit. There is scarcely a normal .300 hitter in the entire array. Fielding? Quite all right. Pitching? Yes, oh, yes, an ample sufficiency. Speed? A great plenty.

Few clubs, however, have won a championship without some strenuous hitting. The Chicago White Sox of 1906, are a noteworthy contradiction, but conditions in American league have little in common with those in the National league now. At least four clubs will be in the chase all the way and the one that does not hit will be slightly out of luck.

Looking over the regular lineup, we have selected but three men who figure to be there with the stick. They are Charley Grimm, the great first baseman, Carson Bigbee, the outfielder, and Walter Schmidt, the catcher. Rabbit Maranville is a good little man in a pinch but does not figure to hit above .260. Indeed Grimm has yet to achieve anything faintly resembling a .300 average in his two seasons as a regular, although he is considered a good hitter.

Carey's Career Waning

Of course Hal Traynor, the new second baseman, and Clyde Bernhart at third, may come through with the stick and in that case will be constrained to revise our estimates. In the outfield, Gibson has engineered a shift, sending Max Carey to left field and Bigbee to center. This is being done to prolong Carey's baseball life, now waning.

Max is another of those not altogether robust hitters. He gets on a lot however.

Right field will be left to the tender mercies of Ray Rowher and Johnny Moken. The pirates, it will be recollected, got away running last year and made a show of the National league race until they caved abruptly in mid-September. Here again you have the matter of hitting. On that 1921 team were Rabbit Maranville hitting up around .370 for the greater part of the early season, George Cuthaw about the same figure and Cotton Tierney, a recruit even higher.

Tierney, in fact, was exposed as one of those unfortunates with a groove, and pitchers were not slow in working on his weakness. Tierney doesn't figure to be in the regular lineup this year unless he can correct his batting faults. Cuthaw has already taken himself off to the Detroit Tigers with a bad pair of shanks and Maranville probably will settle down to the prosaic business of being himself at the plate.

There is no better balanced pitching staff in all baseball than that mustered by the Pirates and for this very essential reason, the team must be regarded as a pennant contender from first to last. No two ways about it, they are really the downright goods and all appear to be in good condition.

FEATURE BOUTS FOR ASSOCIATION CARD

To Be Staged at Armory Next Monday Night.

Local fight fans will be treated to some feature bouts at the next boxing show to be staged by the Marion Athletic association at the armory next Monday night April 3. The card will be the most expensive that has been put on and it will require considerable effort on the part of the association to make it a financial success.

The main bout will be twelve rounds between Dan Bowser, of Lima, and Eddie Mylaney, of Akron, at 160 pounds. This will be the first time fans have had a chance here to see two stars of this weight in action. Mullaney is one of the hardest hitting middleweights in Ohio. He has met and defeated some of the best men in the ring including Joe Chip Al Graves, Kid Brady, Benito Block and many others. In his last three fights he has knocked out Sator Dick Evans at Canton, Johnny Shea at Akron, and Battling Sherbine at Sebring.

Bowser is one of the most promising boys in the middleweight class in Ohio. He has won his last three by the knock out route. His last three victims being such class men as O Dell, of Cleveland, Ben Henry at Toledo, and Patsy White at Columbus.

The semi-finals of eight rounds promises to be a whirlwind affair as it will bring together Mutt Snyder of Dayton and Johnnie Bright of Akron at 118 pounds. Snyder will be remembered as having knocked out Battling Mehand in the club's first show and his classy and fast style of boxing made him a favorite with the fans. Bright is fast as a flash and has won from such boys as Billy Mears, Jackie Palmer, Kid Young, Johnny Miller and others who were fighting their way to the top.

Tickets for the show are being disposed of fast and reservations have been received from a number of out of town fans.

Daily Proverb—"The man that is happy in all things is more rare than the phoenix."

It is no longer necessary to wait for Easter for the Easter hat, for the Easter hat has been here, for these many days.

"God bless the United States," said Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, upon his arrival home from a trip of several weeks in Europe. That was all he had to say when reporters at the pier gathered about him. It was enough.

When a man votes against anything that he believes he should not vote for, in the face of apparent popular favor, he must be termed a true representative of the people even though his vote may mean him to be a one-term.

A man doing that which he believes to be right always is fearless; he is either a big man or has the stuff in him that makes for big men.

"CORN BEEF AND CABBAGE"

Did you ever go into a high-toned eating place and pick up the bill-of-fare with a nonchalant air as though all your life you had been accustomed to doing that very thing, then—all of a sudden, it dawned upon you that you recognized scarcely an item on the menu card?

It makes a fellow feel rather queer, doesn't it? And disgusted, too. The idea of going into an American restaurant in America only to discover just plain things to eat described by some foreign name that only college professors and waiters know what they mean. The average man does not know anything more about the average menu card than he does about the man in the moon.

The man or woman who finds himself or herself in a predicament of that kind feels like saying something sizzling. But other people are there in the dining-room, and they are "going through with it" as though the experience was not unusual for them, and so the only thing to do is to make the best of it.

One point of difference between the European and the American systems, however, is that under the former, except in the case of table d'hôte, the charge is for each dish ordered, while under the American plan a fixed charge is made for every meal. Usually, in America, hotels are conducted on the European plan, so the average person who knows nothing of French must do some guessing. For the average man does not know whether a "boulet à la Marseillaise" means old-fashioned bean soup or ice-cream and cake.

The first hotels in America were conducted on the so-called American plan, which provided for a fixed price for a day and for each fraction of a day. Then, years afterward, came the European plan, which fixes a price for a room and which charges for extra service and for each item on the bill-of-fare. In some cases, the two plans are combined, but it is the European plan that is generally followed by the large hotels.

The French words for American menu cards cling tenaciously, although there is now a movement on the part of hotel men themselves to eliminate them and to let the people know what they've got to offer in plain American language. Crowding of the bills-of-fare with meaningless words may be one of the things serving to popularize the cafeteria.

NOT ALWAYS BEST TO TELL ALL.

"No cause is known for the act." Frequently this line appears in the story of some one's suicide. "No cause is known" so far as the public knows. But usually relatives know the cause, or they surmise it, and it were better that it never become public. And sometimes the newspapers know the cause, yet they do not print it. There are many reasons why they do not—sometimes. Publication of the cause might cast a shadow across the life of an innocent sufferer; it might cause a deeper thrust altogether unnecessary.

"What he doesn't know won't hurt him" sometimes applies in a larger sense with a newspaper and the public which it serves. However, as a rule, the newspaper publishes the news, and the facts make up the news.

"YOU SEE HOW IT IS, UNCLE SAM."

AN AMERICAN MUSICAL GENIUS.

A Greek legend tells how a beautiful youth, son of a Greek god, fell in love with his own reflection in the water. Love-sick, he pined away and died. The gods changed him into a lovely flower. The youth was Narcissus and the flower to this day bears his name.

But it remained for an American to immortalize Narcissus in music. Born at Edgeworth, Pennsylvania, in 1882, Ethelbert Woodbridge Nevin died at thirty-nine at New Haven, Connecticut. Taken by death at the height of a musical career, he was still in the prime of his life.

"Narcissus," Nevin's most celebrated composition of the piano suite, "Water Scenes," has worldwide popularity. It is a charming example of poetic thought. Its melody is exquisite and moves smoothly with a swaying rhythm. Then there is a second theme which is troubled and suggests the disturbed surface of the water as the transformation occurs. This gives way to the first melody, suggestive this time of the swaying Narcissus flower in the light spring breeze.

Nevin's memory would have been perpetuated with "Narcissus" alone, but in addition he wrote such classics as "O, That We Two Were Maying," "A Day in Venice," "Cradle Song," "Milkmaid's Song," "Mighty Lak" a Rose," "The Rosary Song," "Little Boy Blue," etc.

Nevin composed "Narcissus" when only thirteen years of age and "O, That We Two Were Maying" at fourteen. He began writing at twelve. His musical education was obtained in Pittsburgh and Berlin. After three years in Berlin, he returned to America and opened a studio in Boston. Not only musicians will find joy in the reflection that Nevin was an American. All America is proud to own him. The movement now to awaken a higher appreciation of him through American social clubs and the American schools is a most commendable project.

"Let 'em spoon" says the mayor of Youngstown, this keeping a pre-election promise to permit spooning in Youngstown parks. What next, Mayor Oles?

Sarah Bernhardt has signed a contract at the age of seventy to play the role of Eve in the four-act play, "Adam and Eve." The "Divine Sarah" is to tempt an Adam of sixty-three in the person of Lucien Guitry.

PUZZLING TO BIBLE READERS.

Casual Bible readers are always puzzled over the "Acts of the Apostles," the fifth of the New Testament canon and last of the canonical narratives of Christian origins, and, aside from the meager notes in "The Epistles," our only source of the history of Christianity for the first thirty or thirty-five years after the death of Jesus Christ.

Who wrote "Acts of the Apostles," commonly known as "The Acts"? The average Bible reader finds himself somewhat perplexed in reading through this book. From time immemorial tradition has assigned the authorship to the author of the "Gospel of St. Luke." Modern critics, however, are prone to doubt this because of some alleged discrepancies not easy for an ordinary layman to explain. It has been pretty well established, though, that a Gentile Christian, or Gentile Christians, wrote "The Acts," seeking to explain to pagan Gentiles the origin of Christianity, and its spread by divinely-directed methods from Jews to Gentiles. "The Acts" further show that "the first Christians were of one heart and one soul, without selfishness or jealousy and single in aim."

No book in the Bible has more beautiful characters—Stephen, Cornelius, Lydia and all the rest. Nine of the apostles are mentioned by name. The story of Paul as related in "The Acts" grips the heart and awakens the brain to a keener realization of the wonderful life of Christ Jesus.

If Bible readers would enjoy reading the holy scriptures more, and read far more understandingly, they should read one book, then look up its history and see for themselves what the best thinkers have had to write about it, and then proceed to the next book and follow the same course that they followed after reading the first book.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

(By Dr. James Ball Naylor.)

AMERICA FIRST.

Judging from the editorials which have appeared in the Ohio State Journal from time to time, the editor thinks it would have been well for America to have joined the league of nations; thinks it would have been the wise and gracious thing for this government to have accepted the league covenant—with more or less satisfactory reservations, at least; and thinks the chief—if not the only—reason why we are not in the league today is because Republican senators, inspired and led by that arch conspirator, Senator Lodge, indulged in petty and contemptible politics.

But now this same editor holds that our state department is doing the proper thing in declining to take part in the Genoa economic conference.

I shall quote quotations from a recent State Journal editorial, and contribute comments.

"In declining the invitation to the United States to take part in the economic conference at Genoa next month, Secretary of State Hughes has stated the American position so clearly and forcefully that it must have a strong appeal to the American who thinks of this country first and most."

And the American who doesn't think of this country first and most isn't an American at all, really. And this is true whether he is considering the league of nations or the Genoa conference.

"An economic conference for the rehabilitation of finances in the countries abroad could be made productive of results of importance to the world, and it is not natural that this country should desire to lend its aid and have a part in that work."

Just so.

A world economic conference is needed, doubtless—just as an understanding and treaty was needed immediately following the close of the World War. And the United States would and should take part in such conference—just as it was willing and ready to take part in the Paris conference. So why has our state department declined the invitation?

"But when the economic conference program is entangled with political conditions and questions, no division may be made, the action of this government in staying out seems the part of wisdom."

Aye, aye!

But wasn't the program of the Versailles conference entangled with political conditions and questions? Isn't the league of nations covenant agreed upon and adopted there entangled with European political conditions and questions? Answer me these questions, Mr. Editor.

"Whatever may be the part this country should contribute in reconstruction, it can not be broadened to include our meddling in European questions that are purely political."

Well, holy smoke, Mr. Editor!

If we shouldn't meddle in European questions now, when we're safely without the league of nations, would it have been right and wise for us to join the league of nations—and obligate ourselves to meddle in European questions? You may answer me that question, too, if you will.

"It is not an unfair or unfriendly construction of utterances of leaders abroad to say they expected this country to bear the great portion of the burden."

Yes, indeed! Just as they expected us to bear the great portion of the burden—when they thought we were going to join the league!

When a wife uses a beam-handle to convince her husband, of course she gains a sweeping victory.

One can't have everything, and if he could—he wouldn't enjoy anything.

REIDENBAUGH GROCERY BURGLARIZED SUNDAY

Groceries and Five Dollars in Cash Are Taken.

BURGLARS SMASH GLASS IN REAR DOOR

Second Time Store Is Entered Within a Week—Arrest Seven Foreigners.

The grocery of Ray Reidenbaugh, at the corner of Prospect and George streets, was entered for the second time within less than a week Sunday night. Entrance was gained by breaking a glass in the rear door and removing the bar. Twelve dozen eggs, three dozen cans of fruit, a can of lard, a crate of apples and five dollars in cash was secured. The burglary was reported to the police this morning.

Last Monday night entrance to the store was gained by breaking the glass in the front door. The articles taken then were almost the same as those taken last night and were recovered two days later, having been secreted in a vacant house on Silver street.

Arrest Seven Foreigners. Seven foreigners, most of them Mexicans, were arrested about 12:15 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of Frank Vigel, of No. 1006 west Center street, and locked up for disorderly conduct. The arrest of the parties followed several calls to the house by the police. When arraigned before the mayor Sunday afternoon, four of the offenders pleaded guilty and were fined five dollars each. Another was fined $10 and two entered pleas of not guilty and were dismissed for want of evidence.

Assessed $100 Fine. Frank Vigel was arrested Sunday afternoon on the affidavit of Chief of Police J. W. Thompson on a charge of furnishing intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes to John Viskutz, a Mexican. The arrest was the sequel of the arrest of Viskutz and six other foreigners at the Vigel home early Sunday morning. Vigel was given a hearing before the mayor and on being found guilty of the charge against him was fined $100. He was committed and is making arrangements to settle the fine.

Charge Disorderly Conduct. Park Perry, colored, was arrested at his home on Folk street, Sunday evening, on a charge of disorderly conduct preferred against him by his wife. He was fined five dollars by the mayor, this morning.

CHURCH SOCIETY

Three Services at Wesley. Three services were held Sunday at Wesley M. E. church in charge of the evangelist, Miss Edna Banning. Following the evangelistic service in the Sunday-school the altar was filled more than once. Miss Banning talked on "The Evidence of Christian Life" at the morning church service and a large number went to the altar at the close of this service.

An enthusiastic praise and song service was held in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. A. W. Rinehart sang a sacred solo, "Is He Yours?" Miss Banning gave a talk.

The auditorium was filled for the evening service when Miss Banning preached on the subject, "Be Sure Your Sins Will Find You Out." Special numbers were sung by the male chorus and following the service a number of persons went forward.

The meetings will continue throughout this week with services each evening at 7:30 o'clock in Zachman announced that when the class had an attendance of seventy-five twice in one month, he would entertain with a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. building. Dr. W. L. Johnson is teacher of the class.

Marriage Covenant Topic.

"The Marriage Covenant" was the subject of the fourth sermon of a series on "Matrimony," by Dr. O. F. Laughbaum, pastor of the First United Brethren church, Sunday evening. Dr. Laughbaum took for his text Amos 3:13, "Can two walk together unless they be agreed?" "Through the wrinkles of time and through the music of the years, husbands and wives should love one another better and thus fulfill the marriage covenant which stands for all time and for which they must answer in eternity," Dr. Laughbaum said.

Golden Links Class.

Miss Lily Belle Ward gave a reading and Miss Margaret Snyder entertained with several piano numbers at the meeting of the members of the Golden Links Sunday-school class of Trinity Baptist church Saturday afternoon in the church parlors. A picnic supper was enjoyed at 4:30 o'clock and the teacher, Mrs. Harry Merchant served refreshments. The class will meet in two weeks in the church parlors.

Services at Calvary Church.

Both services at Calvary Evangelical church were well attended Sunday in spite of the rainy weather. In the morning there was a combined decision-day service of the Sunday-school and church. After an illustrated sermon by the pastor, Rev. C. L. Allen, eleven went forward.

Sunday evening Rev. C. L. Allen spoke on the subject: "Man's Greatest Question" taking his text from Matthew 27:22. "This is a personal question," Rev. Allen said. "Pilate said what shall I do with Jesus? He tried to shift the responsibility. The world is full of people who are saying, 'I can't be a Christian because of my husband or wife or some other person. It is a question of doing. What do we do with Jesus?'"

Special music in the evening was rendered by the choir, male chorus and a solo was sung by Mr. Helinger. Class prayer meetings will be held each evening this week at 7 o'clock followed by the regular service at 7:30.

How to Put Up and Connect Receiving Apparatus

Material needed for installation of aerial system.

How the aerial is assembled.

How the receiving instrument is connected.

Installing the First Receiver

BY "SPARKS."

Going home on the car the other night some of the boys started to talk radio. They had all heard a great deal about the subject, but no one seemed to have the "inside dope."

"Yeah," drawled one big fellow, "this radio is fine stuff when you know the combination. I'm not a consulting engineer, and I don't know a cream separator from a dry battery. Where are all these wise-ones who live on a steady diet of volts and amperes? Why don't they drop a rope to the technical low-brows?"

Here's the rope! I'm writing this simply to convince my readers that there is nothing difficult about the installation of a radiohobby receiving station. Directions come with each outfit. I'm going to try to take the "scare" out of the chap who has not yet mustered enough courage to try.

Music in the Air.

Let's start out with the idea in mind that the other is chock full of music-laden waves. We want to "pull" these waves down. That means that we must put up the aerial. The aerial is sort of electrical "door" with a welcome sign on it to all passing ether waves. In general the larger this door is the better it will be. We want it to get a good solid "grip" on the ether. We can't put it up too high, but this does not mean that we need a Woodworth tower to hang it on. It's advisable to put it up as high as possible and let it go at that.

If we are real close to a broadcasting station and have an attic we can hang it there. For distance beyond two miles, however, it is not advisable to do this unless we have a very sensitive receiving outfit.

Clean Connections. The electrical dealer will supply us with some No. 14 bare or insulated copper wire. The number of feet needed will, of course, depend upon the size of the aerial that is going to be erected. In most cases 200 feet will be sufficient. We also want a small galvanized iron pulley, some good clothes line rope, a few insulators and a ground clamp. It may be necessary to call on the nearest carpenter for a place of two-by-four wood. To this list of materials add a couple of old broom handles. Aside from the receiving set itself, that is all we will need.

Now up with the aerial. It should first be assembled in the manner shown. The broomstick spreaders are provided with holes at each end to accommodate the wires. The insulators are attached to the aerial wires as illustrated.

We must take the utmost care in making the connections. If they are made carelessly our radio will probably not "radio" when we complete it and there will be much gnashing of teeth.

Scrape the wires clean and solder them afterward covering them with friction tape to prevent corrosion. If the solder insists upon rolling off in little balls we must "slick" until the solder sticks.

The wire that connects the aerial with the receiving outfit is called the "lead in" wire. It should be supported by insulators at every point where it makes contact with the side of the house. We attach this wire to the post marked "aerial" on the receiving outfit and another length of wire to the post marked "ground." This wire is connected to the water or steam pipe. Make a good clean connection. A little piece of emery cloth and a liberal portion of "yellow grease" is all that is necessary to do this.

We are all ready for the music now. We need only adjust the detector, turn the tuning knob and listen.

of the current in half—we cut its rate of "vibration" in half, bringing it from the range of inaudibility. The resulting current if allowed to pass into an ordinary telephone receiver affects it in such a way that they produce sound. So much for "how it works."

Now for the construction. A simple wooden base will do. We do not need to be fussy about this. However, the wood used should be perfectly dry. The holes necessary for the binding posts, crystal holder and wire holder should be drilled in the base. A hot nail is a good substitute for a hand drill.

The cup-shaped crystal holder can be one of many things. Take care the housekeeper doesn't miss the top off the salt shaker. The end of an old cigarette case will do nicely also. Be sure that the "inside of the cup" is clean. Drill a small hole through the side of it and tap it for an eight-thirty-two screw.

If the necessary tools are not at hand, the little repair shop around the corner will do the job for a few cents. Also drill a hole in the bottom of the cup so that it can be fastened to the wooden base.

Next make the "cat-whisker." A small piece of brass spring wire coiled around the end of a lead pencil will do. One end of this is held under a screw when may be taken from an old dry battery.

After the binding posts are placed on the base the job is completed with the exception of the connections. The little cup holding the crystal is connected to one of the binding posts. The coiled spring wire is connected to the other binding post.

Now a word about crystals. This is a galena detector. That means that we shall have to go to a radio shop and buy a supply of small galena crystals. A small piece is placed in the cup and held there tightly with the screw. This insures a good electrical contact.

When the detector is used in connection with the instruments that will be described later in this column it will be necessary to adjust it to a point of maximum sensitivity. To do this we must "dash" around on the surface of the crystal with the free end of the little brass wire. Some spots are sensitive and some are not. Just as soon as we touch a sensitive spot an improvement in the strength of the received signals will be noticed.

The crystals "wear" out in time and must be replaced.

BY THE EDITOR

Is radio a passing fad? The morning picture had its fad days. Both survived them; both won the lasting approval of the public. The telephone was once a luxury. Today it is a necessity. Radio is today a luxury. Tomorrow it will be a necessity.

We are witnessing the sunrise of a new American institution. Radio is here to stay. Radio is not only a form of entertainment. It has just started to demonstrate its utilitarian value.

We must not lose sight of its educational possibilities. Radio is a definite in a boundless sea of opportunity. That it will eventually affect our social and political life there can be no possible doubt.

Let us not cry "fad" before we give the matter due consideration. True, it has descended upon us without warning, but many of us have been too quick to regard it as a new plaything of the fickle public.

Why not join the merry throng of listeners? A small, inexpensive receiver will not only afford rare pleasure, but it will allow us to keep in close touch with the progress of a new art that will eventually affect civilization itself.

We must not be narrow-minded about this. We will not only hear music and lectures, but we will be "listening in" on history in the making. Those of us who start now will never regret it.

THE CODE LEARNER

Those who depend entirely upon the broadcast concerts and lectures miss a lot of real sport. Learning the language of dots and dashes is easy, and once learned it will allow no end of pleasure through listening to the big commercial and ship stations.

What is now a stream of meaningless characters will unfold itself as a connected thought. Then, too, those of us who have been stung badly by the little insect, the "Radio Bug," must remember that the code is necessary if we wish to set up and operate a transmitter at a later date.

We first make ourselves familiar with the code characters which are given below. It is well to learn them slowly. Then translate the message below. Practice of this kind is invaluable.

Quick Relief from Constipation Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets, while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark-brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.—Adv.

RADIO DICTIONARY

Watch This Column Every Day. It Will Help You Understand the Terms Used in Radio.

Aerial—A system of wires arranged to receive and propagate electrical waves. The aerial is always connected to the ground.

Antenna—Same as aerial. Heretofore the discoverer of electric waves, used this term.

Alternating Current—A current which periodically changes its direction of flow. Radio currents are alternating.

Alternator—An electric generator which produces an alternating current. Special generators are used in producing what are known as radio-frequency currents.

Ampere—The unit used in expressing the quantity of electricity. Amplifier—A device—usually a vacuum tube—which adds local energy—electricity—to an incoming signal.

Audibility—Measure of the strength of an incoming radio signal.

Audion—The name given to the vacuum tube by Dr. Lee De Forest. An evacuated glass bulb containing three elements: a filament, a "grid" and a "plate." Used in the detection, amplification and generation of radio signals.

Arc—The passage of an electric current across a heated air gap. The arc can be used as a generator of radio-frequency currents.

TODAY'S RADIO TIP

If you use a storage battery to operate your vacuum tubes you had better watch the voltage and the condition of the electrolyte.

Take an occasional look at your aerial. Inspect the connections carefully. Remember that the rain corrodes the wire.

If you have a crystal receiver, and you find its sensitivity waning, get a new crystal from your dealer. Crystals do not last indefinitely.

MAKING IT YOURSELF

This column is for the man who likes to fuss around with tools on the kitchen table. Every day there will be published here directions for making every instrument used in radio transmitting and receiving outfits.

A Home-Made Detector

"How does the detector 'detect'?" asks the man who is about to build a radio receiver. To understand this we must first know the limitations of the human ear. Nature so designed our "detectors" that we can not hear sounds that vibrate with a frequency above 10,000 a second even though they are under our very noses.

Now, radio currents "vibrate" at a point far beyond the range of human hearing. The problem is to cut this rate of "vibration" down to a point where our ear will respond. That is the function of a crystal detector.

Radio currents dash back and forth in a circuit many thousands of times a second. They alternate, going first in one direction and then in the opposite direction. The little piece of crystal that we place in a detector has the peculiar property of allowing a current to pass freely in one direction, but not allowing it to turn about and pass in a sort of one-way door.

If an alternating current is allowed to pass through the crystal, half of it will be cut off. This will have the effect of cutting the frequency

Taste is a matter of tobacco quality

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.

C. D. & M. CALLER WILL OBSERVE BIRTHDAY

C. E. Goodspeed Sixty-Five Years Old Wednesday.

HOCKING SECTION MEN ON FIVE-DAY WEEK

Firemen and Enginemen To Hold a Special Meeting Tuesday Evening—Rail Notes.

Sixty years between doctor's calls is the record of C. E. Goodspeed, No. 181 north Grand avenue, baggage man and caller for the C. D. & M., who will celebrate his sixty-fifth birthday next Wednesday.

"I have only had to call a doctor twice in my life," he said today. "The first time was when I was about four years old and I had cut the end off of one of my fingers. The doctor had to come seven miles to see it up. He stayed for dinner and I think that he only charged $1.50 for the trip. The second time was just last fall, after Thanksgiving, when during a short spell of sickness, I needed medical attention. It had been more than sixty years since the other doctor had sewed up my finger. The rest of the time I have been in the best of health."

Mr. Goodspeed was born in 1867, two miles west of Athens on the Goodspeed farm and he made his home near there for more than a half-century. He says he used to drive a double team of oxen for a lumber mill. For the last nine years he has lived in Marion and has been employed by the Marion Steam Shovel company and the Big Four railroad. His employment with the C. D. & M. covers a period of about five years.

Wednesday he will pass the day at home and celebrate. He says he will "read his Bible and play his violin." The violin is said to be 101 years old.

Section men on the Hocking Valley were put on a five-day-a-week working basis today. The change is made on account of deceased business, railroad officials say. The men were put on a six-day week March 1. Previous to that time they had been working five days a week.

A special meeting has been announced for Tuesday evening, March 28, at the Odd Fellows' temple at 8 o'clock, which will be addressed by John A. McBride, grand lodge representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. An invitation to attend the meeting has been extended to members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

O. L. Enos, division passenger agent for the Erie from Mansfield, was in Marion today.

Erie passenger train No. 4, moved the "Honey Dew" company, a theatrical troupe, from Cincinnati to New York. A special car and a baggage car were used.

J. A. Cooper, road foreman of engines for the Erie in Marion, was in Youngstown today.

Twenty-one cars of live poultry passed through Marion yesterday from the East and fifteen more today. Included in the movement Sunday was an entire car of what are known as "hothouse" chickens. They were hatched in Oklahoma in December and were just released for the market as spring broilers.

The C. D. & M. is operating a tripper each afternoon to Stop No. 80, to accommodate workmen at the Osgood and the Commercial Steel Castings companies. Every afternoon, except Saturday, it leaves the transfer up town at 4:30 o'clock and leaves Stop No. 80 at 5 o'clock, reaching the transfer again at 5:20 and the east end at 5:29. On Saturday, the schedule is moved one hour earlier. About seventy men are handled.

A theater party followed the dinner. Those present were Miss Ethel Fawn, Mrs. Lena Gillespie, Mrs. Opal Dunnell, Miss Anabel Myers, Miss Doris Freeman, Miss Prettyman and Miss Clark.

The special meetings being conducted this week at the Methodist church are gaining in interest and attendance each night. Rev. E. L. Ditzler, who was assisted in the meetings last winter, will be present all next week, and Sunday evening John H. Clark, of Marion, will be present and address the congregation.

On account of the inclement weather and the almost impossible condition of the country roads, Mrs. Damon Parker was hostess to the members of the Twentieth Century club Tuesday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. F. Kniffin, instead of at her own home in the country. The meeting was well attended and "Memory Gems" were given in answer to roll call. Mrs. J. W. Campbell read a paper on "Who Owns the United States?" Mrs. H. L. Miller followed with "Peary as a Leader." Mrs. S. A. Raub read a back paper entitled "Indiana's Unrivaled Sand Dunes" and Mrs. I. S.
